

Internal English (US)

Ohly has a great opportunity for a Process Engineer Intern to join our team in Boyceville Wisconsin USA.

The Process Engineer Intern will be responsible for the job duties as described below;

Process Improvement Responsibilities

- Work with Operations Team (Production, Quality, Maintenance, Engineering, Safety) to improve output and efficiency of production processes including Spray Drying, Blending, Separations, or Enzymatic reactions
- Develop and improve mass, energy, cost, and labor balance modeling
- Implement and optimize process controls
- Develop strategies to improve process performance
- Update Process & Instrumentation Diagrams
- Create/revise procedures and instructions

Communication

- Ensure all departments are generally aware of process work, and affected personnel are informed
- Work collaboratively with operators on all changes
- Support 'upward' flow of ideas and concerns
- Actively participate in daily production meetings

Safety Responsibilities

- Demonstrates safety takes priority and insists on strict adherence to safety policies/procedures
- Support and comply with Good Manufacturing Practices and the Food Safety Plan
- Participates in the Ohly Americas safety program including but not limited to attending weekly, monthly, and annual safety training

Essential Skills & Knowledge

- Self-starter, independent, flexible
- Hands-on, Operations focus
- Creative, resourceful learner
- Comprehensive oral and written skills
- Observant with ability to investigate and interpret data accurately
- Strong interpersonal skills
- Assists with employee training as required

Required Education and Experience

- Pursuing a B.S. in Chemical Engineering, Biosystems Engineering, or other engineering field
- Minimum GPA of 2.8
- High school diploma required

Location

- This position will be based in Boyceville, WI

Other Factors

- No travel is required.
- Job requires >50% of total work hours of finger/hand dexterity

You are interested in this position? Then we look forward to receiving your application.